Sir Alexander m. 2ndly, 4 Oct. 1893, Annie Augusta, dau. of Robert Henry Mitford, of Weston Lodge, Hampstead, and widow of Walter James, of Elvaston Hall, Ryton-on-Tyne.

Lineage—Sir John Campbell, of Lawers, co. Perth, grandson of John Campbell, of Lawers, younger son of Sir Colin Campbell, first of Glenorchy, m. his cousin Beatrix, dau. of Sir Colin Campbell, of Glenorchy, and had three sons,

1. Sir James Campbell, of Lawers, father of John, Earl of Loudoun, Lord High Chancellor of Scotland; he is represented as heir general by the Earl of Loudoun and as heir male by Sir Alexander Campbell, of Aberuchill, Bart.
2. Colin Campbell, of Aberuchill.
3. Archibald Campbell, prior of Strathfillan.

In 1594, Sir John acquired Aberuchill, and other lands, from the family of Moray, of Abercairny, and the following year resigned them in favour of his 2nd son,

Colin Campbell, of Aberuchill, who had a crown charter of confirmation in that estate 12 July, 1596, and acquired Craiginch, Leonards, and other lands. In 1612, Archibald, Earl of Argyll, justice general of Scotland, granted a commission to "my lovit Colin Campbell, of Aberuchill," to apprehend or pursue to the death all persons of "that most unhappie and barbarous raice of the name of M'Gregor," his majesty's rebels. An act of parliament, 1617, against the clan Gregor, mentions depredations committed by them on the estate of Aberuchill. Colin Campbell had issue by his wife, who appears to have been a dau. of the family of Colville,

1. James.
2. John of Foordie, a member of the committee of war, 1647, d. in or before 1683, leaving issue, Mary, m. Henry Stewart, advocate, 4th son of Sir William Stewart, of Grandtally; from this marriage descends Sir Archibald D. Stewart, Bart.

Sir Colin Campbell, 1st Bart., of Aberuchill, then a minor, who became a lawyer and politician of note, and held the various high appointments of sheriff depute of Argyllshire 1668; senator of the college of justice under the title of Lord Aberuchill 1689; lord of justiciary and privy councillor 1690. He represented the co. of Perth in parliament from 1690 to 1702. In 1669 Sir Colin acquired the barony of Kilbryde, with its fine old castle, the seat of the earls of Menteith, still the property of his representative. A crown charter a few months later erected all his lands into one free barony, holding direct of the king, to be called Aberuchill, and made Inneruchill into a burgh of barony. Lord Aberuchill suffered losses amounting to 17,201*l.* Scots from the Highland army, under Lord Dundee, and had an act of parliament granting him compensation, which he appears never to have received. The precise date at which the baronetcy was conferred cannot now be ascertained, as the patent is lost, and was, like many others, in favour of gentlemen on whom the baronetcy of Nova Scotia was conferred about this period, never registered: it appears, however, to have been between 23 Jan. 1667, and 16 May, 1668, and the baronet's arms appear no less than four times from 1672 to 1703 in the Lyon Register, in each instance with the title and the Nova Scotia badge. GERALD, sprung the Carews and FitzGeralds: he was castellan of Pembroke Castle, and in great favour with HENRY I., from whom he received the lordship of Mulsford, in Berks. By Nesta, his wife, dau. of Rhys ap Tudor Mawr, King of South Wales, whose dower was the castle of Carew, he had three sons, MAURICE, WILLIAM, and DAVID; from Maurice, the eldest, descended the FITZGERALDS, Dukes of Leinster. Lineage—SIR ALEXANDER GIBSON, of Durie, co. Fife, one of the most eminent lawyers of his day (son and heir of George Gibson, of Goldingstones, clerk of session, and Elizabeth Airth), was made a clerk of session in 1594, JAMES VI. being present. He was knighted; made a lord of session as Lord Durie 1621, reappointed 1640, and chosen president of the Court, 1642. In 1628 inchoate steps were taken for bestowing on him a Baronetcy of Nova Scotia (by sasine being conferred on him of the barony of Durie in Anticosti), but that dignity seems not to have been actually conferred on him, as not only is neither the patent nor its warrant on record, but none of the family assumed the title previously to the patent of 1702. However, a copy of the warrant, dated Feb. 1628, is in the possession of the present baronet. Lineage—THOMAS DE DALZELL was one of the great barons who swore fealty to King EDWARD I. in 1296, and one of the worthy patriots that joined ROBERT BRUCE.

SIR ROBERT DE DALZELL, Knt., obtained from King DAVID II. grants of the serjeantship of Lanark, on the resignation of Andrew Starheved, and of the lands of Croykstoune, co. Peebles. He had from the same monarch a charter, "dilecto et fideli nostro Roberto de Dalzell militi, pro homagio et survicio suo, omnes terras nostras de Selkyrk, cum pertinenciis, exceptis annuis redditibus nostris et firmis nostris de burgo nostro de Selkyrk," to him and the legitimate heirs male of his body, 15 May, 1365. He was one of the Scottish barons who were surety to HACO, King of Norway, that Henry Sinclair, Earl of Orkney, should faithfully govern the islands of Orkney. In 1380, he was sent over to Norway by the said earl, and d. the same year, immediately after his return.

SIR WILLIAM DE DALZELL, a gallant knight, obtained from King DAVID II., 13 Aug. 1364, a grant of the fee of five pounds sterling per annum as serjeant of Lanark, either out of Sheriff Court or the Justice-air held there. In 1388, Sir William de Dalzell lost an eye at the battle of Otterburn, and, in 1390, accompanied Sir David Lindsay, of Glenesk (afterwards Earl of Crawford) to the famous tournament at London, when he defeated the English champion, Sir Piers Courtenay. He recovered the estate of his ancestors, as "William de Dalzell, dominus ejusdem," and is witness to a charter of Johanna de Keith, Lady of Gallystoun, to her son, Andrew de Hamyltoun, 11 Dec. 1406. His elder son,

The same monarch granted to him St. Leonard's Hospital, near Lanark, with the whole lands and revenues thereto belonging, upon condition that he and his heirs should provide a qualified person to celebrate three masses once in every seven years, for the salvation of the souls of his Majesty, Annabella his queen, and all their children for ever. The charter is dated 3 June, 1400, with remainder to Walter, Adam, and Robert de Dalzell, his sons, and the heirs male of their bodies respectively; and is confirmed by King JAMES II., 19 Feb. 1449-50, by which time Sir John Dalzell was dead, he being designed "quondam" in the confirmation.

CHARLEMONT.

The Viscount Charlemont (James Alfred Caulfeild, C.B.), and Baron Caulfeild, of Charlemont, in Ireland, vice-lieutenant co. Tyrone, J.P. and D.L. for that co., high sheriff 1868, hon. col. 3rd batt. the Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, late capt. Coldstream Guards, and comptroller in the household of the lord lieutenant of Ireland 1868-95, now Usher of the Black Rod of the Order of St. Patrick, b. 20 March, 1830; s. his cousin as 7th viscount 1892; m. 2 Feb. 1858, Hon. Annette Handcock, younger dau. of Richard, 3rd Lord Castlemaine, and by her (who d. 10 Nov. 1888) has issue, Constance Elizabeth, m. 10 Feb. 1880, Uchter John Mark, 5th Earl of Ranfurly, and has issue.

Lineage—This noble family springs from the co. of Oxford. In the reign of Elizabeth,

Sir Toby Caulfeild, 1st Lord Charlemont (bapt. at Great Milton, near Oxford, 2 Dec. 1565, the son of Alexander Caulfeild, of Great Milton), a distinguished and gallant soldier, was employed by her majesty in Ireland, against the formidable O'Neill, Earl of Tyrone. In 1615, Sir Toby was appointed one of the council for the province of Munster; and, the next year, joined in commission with the Lord Deputy St. John and others for parcelling out the escheated lands in Ulster, to such British undertakers as were named in the several tables of assignation. In these employments, the King (James I.) found him so faithful, diligent, and prudent, that his majesty deemed him highly deserving the peerage of Ireland, and accordingly (by patent which stated that he was "generosâ et per antiquâ stirpe oriundus") created him, 22 Dec. 1620, Lord Caulfeild, Baron of Charlemont, co. Armagh, with limitation of the honour to his nephew, Sir William Caulfeild, Knt., son of George Caulfeild, M.P., by Martha his wife, dau. of Richard Taverner, of Wood Eaton. His lordship d. a bachelor, 17 Aug. 1627, and was s. by his nephew,

Sir William Caulfeild, 2nd Lord Charlemont. This nobleman took his seat in parliament, 4 Nov. 1634, after the Lord Chancellor had moved to know the pleasure of the House, whether he should be admitted to this place having brought neither writ of summons nor patent; whereupon it was resolved that his lordship should be admitted, inasmuch as they were all satisfied that he was a Lord of Parliament. His lordship m. Mary, dau. of Sir John King, Knt. (ancestor of the Earls of Kingston), by whom (who d. 1663) he had seven sons and three daus. Lord Charlemont was s. at his decease, in 1640, by his eldest son,

Toby, 3rd Lord Charlemont, who also s. the late lord as governor of the fort of Charlemont, and there resided, with his company of foot, in garrison. This fort was a place of considerable strength and importance during the rebellion of 1641; but his lordship suffered himself to be surprised, 22 Oct. in that year; and being made prisoner, with his whole family, was put to death 1 March, 1641-2, by the orders, it is said, of Sir Phelim O'Neile. This unfortunate nobleman dying unm., was s. by his brother,

Robert, 4th Lord Charlemont, who d. a few months afterwards, from the effects of an overdose of opium, when the barony devolved upon his brother,

William, 5th Lord and 1st Viscount Charlemont. This nobleman apprehended Sir Phelim O'Neile, and had him executed for the murder of his brother. His lordship having filled, after the Restoration, several high and confidential situations, was advanced to a viscounty, as Viscount Charlemont, 8 Oct. 1665. Lineage—The surname of Pelham was assumed from a lordship in Hertfordshire. This lordship of Pelham is recorded to be a part of the possessions of Walter de Pelham, in the 21st of Edward I., and it is believed that his ancestors held it prior to the Conquest. From the earliest period it is certain that the family enjoyed very high consideration; and its members have, in different reigns, distinguished themselves as warriors and statesmen.

Sir John de Pelham, a gallant soldier in the reign of Edward III., shared in the glory of Poictiers and the capture of the French king, John, for which exploit he had, as an emblematical badge of honour, "Two round buckles with broken thongs," which was used by his descendants in their seals (the buckles being placed on either side of a shield containing the Pelham arms), or (quarterly with the Pelham arms) as a coat of honourable augmentation. Sir John had certain lands and houses in Winchelsea, in marriage with Joan, dau. of Vincent Herbert, alias Finch, and was s. by his son,

Sir John Pelham, K.B., M.P., constable of Pevensey Castle. This eminent person represented the co. of Sussex in parliament, and enjoyed great influence at the court of Henry IV. From Sir John we pass to his lineal descendant,

Sir William Pelham,* who m. 1st, Mary, dau. of Sir Richard Carew, of Beddington, Surrey, and by that lady had two sons and a dau. He m. 2ndly, Mary, dau. of William, Lord Sandys of The Vine, lord chamberlain to Henry VIII., and had by her,

Galway, Viscount Galway and Baron of Imanney in Connaught, also Earl of Clanricarde, in the co. of Galway, in Ireland; Baron of Somerhill, Kent, in the United Kingdom, D.L. co. His lordship, formerly in the diplomatic service 1852-63, represented the co. of Galway in parliament 1867-71.

Lineage—The family of De Burgh, De Burgo, Burke, or Bourke (as at different times written), Earls and Marquesses of Clanricarde, ranks amongst the most distinguished in the kingdom, and deduces an uninterrupted line of powerful nobles from the Anglo-Norman Conquest of Ireland.

WILLIAM FITZADELM was sent by HENRY II., with Hugh de Lacie, into Ireland, to receive the submission of Roderick O'Conor, King of Connaught, and of O'Meleaghlin, King of Meath, and founded there, according to Sir Richard Cox, "one of the best and noblest families, which has yielded many brave and worthy men, that have proved eminently serviceable to their king and country, whereby the name, estate, and family are preserved, in great honour and reputation, to this day." This William, who was made governor of Wexford, was entrusted, on the King's return to England, with the management of his affairs in Ireland. In 1175, in a synod of the bishops and clergy at Waterford, he published the bull, and the privileges granted by POPE ALEXANDER III., in confirmation of the bull of ADRIAN IV., constituting the king Lord of Ireland. In 1179, he obtained by grant, a great part of the province of Connaught. He d. in 1204, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD DE BURGH, surnamed The great Lord of Connaught, who was lord lieutenant of Ireland in 1227. This Richard built the castle of Galway in 1232, and that of Loughrea in 1236. He was a man of high authority and power, and d. on his passage to France, in Jan. 1243, in proceeding to meet the King of England at Bordeaux, attended "by his barons and knights." He had two sons, viz.,

1. WALTER, Lord of Connaught, who, marrying MAUD, dau. and heir of Hugh de Lacie, the younger, became in her right, EARL OF ULSTER, on the death of his father-in-law. He was s. by his eldest son,

   RICHARD, 2nd Earl of Ulster, usually called The Red Earl, whose great-granddau., LADY ELIZABETH DE BURGH, only child and heiress of William, 3rd Earl of Ulster, m. LIONEL, of Antwerp, Duke of Clarence, 3rd son of EDWARD III., who became, in consequence, 4th Earl of Ulster, and Lord of Connaught, and had, by the heiress of De Burgh, an only dau., Philippa, wife of EDWARD MORTIMER, 3rd Earl of March, and jure uxoris, 5th Earl of Ulster, ancestor, through his granddau., the LADY ANNE MORTIMER, wife of Richard Plantagenet, Earl of Cambridge, of EDWARD IV., King of England.

2. WILLIAM.

The 2nd son of Richard de Burgh, Lord of Connaught,

WILLIAM DE BURGH, is known by the surname of Athankip, from being put to death at that place by the King of Connaught in 1270. He was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM DE BURGH, who, having m. a dau. of the family of Mac-Jordan, left, with other issue, at his decease, in 1324,

Lineage—The family of Lyttelton has been of long standing in the co. of Worcester, and had considerable possessions in the Vale of Evesham, particularly at South Lyttelton (whence the name has probably been assumed) in the beginning of the 13th century.

THOMAS DE LUTTELTON, circa 19, HENRY III., m. Emma, only dau. and heir of Sir Simon de Frankley, Knt., by whom he had an only dau. Emma, who m. Augerus de Tatlynton. 12th HENRY III., and sheriff of Worcestershire the following year, by whom he left three sons. He was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

EDMUND DE LUTTELTON, who resided at Coulesdon, and had lands at Naunton, in Worcestershire. His youngest and only surviving brother,

THOMAS DE LUTTELTON, represented the co. of Worcester in parliament from 9th EDWARD II. to the 34th EDW. III., and was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

THOMAS DE LUTTELTON, who recovered the manor of Frankley, by a writ of right, on failure of issue to his cousin, Thomas de Tatlynton. This Thomas de Luttelton was esquire of the body to three successive kings, namely, RICHARD II., HENRY IV., and HENRY V. He d. 1st HENRY VI., and left an only dau. and heiress,

ELIZABETH DE LUTTELTON, who m. Thomas Westcote, the king's servant in court, a gentleman of Devonshire, anciently descended; but she being fair, and of noble spirit (to use the phraseology of Lord Coke), and having large possessions and inheritances from her ancestors, De Luttelton, and from her mother, the dau. and co-heir of Quartermain, and other ancestors, resolved to continue the honour of her name, and therefore provided, by Westcote's assent, before marriage, that her issue inheritable should be called by the name of LUTTELTON. Upon this marriage, Mr. Westcote settled at Frankley, and served the office of escheator of Worcester, 29th HENRY VI., 1450; soon after which he died, leaving four sons and as many daus., and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS LUTTELTON or Lyttelton (as he began to write it), who, having been brought up to the bar, was called, in 1454, to the degree of serjeant-at-law, and in the following year was nominated king's serjeant. In 1464 (4th EDWARD IV.), Mr. Serjeant Lyttelton was appointed judge of the court of Common Pleas, and in the 15th year of the same monarch, created K.B. Sir Thomas wrote his celebrated Treatise on Tenures after he had ascended the bench. Sir Thomas Lyttelton m. Joan, widow of Sir Philip Chetwind, of Ingestrie, and dau. and co-heir of Sir William Burley, Knt. of Bromscroft Castle, Shropshire, by whom he had (with two daus., who d. unm.) three sons,

Stafford. Sir William m. 2ndly, Mary, dau. of William Whittington, of Pauntley, co. Gloucester, and dying in 1507, was s. by his only son,

JOHN LYTTELTON. This gentleman m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Sir Gilbert Talbot, and great-great-granddau. (maternally) of John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, son of King EDWARD III.; in right of whom the family of Lyttelton quarters the arms of France and England, within a bordure gobony (see BURKE'S History of the Royal Families of England). Of this marriage, there were seven sons and two daus. John Lyttelton d. 17 May, 1532, and was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN LYTTELTON, Knight. This gentleman was granted by Queen MARY, in 1553, the office of constable of Dudley Castle, co. Stafford, with the rangership of the old and new parks there; and though adhering to the unreformed religion, he enjoyed the confidence of Queen ELIZABETH, being, during her majesty's reign, one of the council of the marches of Wales, deputy lieutenant, and custos rotulorum of the co. Worcester, and in the commission of the peace for that and the co. Stafford. He received, too, the honour of knighthood from Queen ELIZABETH in 1566, at Kenilworth Castle, when her majesty honoured Dudley, Earl of Leicester, with a visit there. Lineage—The house of Lindsay is found in possession of very large territories in England and Scotland soon after the Norman conquest, and different members of this family have been conspicuous not only for their wealth and power, but for the distinction with which they have occupied offices of great public importance. The first ancestor in Scotland was SIR WALTER DE LINDISSI, "noble and knight," who accompanied David, Earl of Huntingdon, brother of ALEXANDER I., to Cumbria, early in the 12th century. Sir Walter was s. by

WILLIAM DE LINDESAY, witness to the charters of King David. His son,

WALTER DE LINDESAY, sat in parliament 1145, and was one of the justiciaries of Scotland. He was witness to the charters of King Malcolm. His son,

SIR WILLIAM DE LINDESAY, sat in parliament 1164, was hostage for King William 1174, and afterwards justiciary. He appears as first proprietor of Crawford, but was styled Baron of Luffness in parliament. He m. about 1174, Aleanora, dau. of Gerard, Lord of Limesay (and co-heir of her brother), by Amicia de Bidun. This Gerard was grandson of Randolph de Limesay, founder of Hertford Priory, and a tenant in chief of considerable estates 1086. The Limesays, deriving their surname from a fief near Caux in Normandy, are supposed to be cadets of the house of Toeny, legitimate heirs male of the Dukes of Normandy. Sir William was heir of Randolph de Lindesay, a great lord in Northumbria, in right of his wife Ethelreda, granddau. of Earl Cospatrick. He d. about 1200, having had issue,

1. SIR DAVID DE LINDESAY, justiciary 1208; m. Marjory, member of the Royal Family, and d. 1214, having had issue,
   1. DAVID, high justiciary of Lothian, 1238; s. his father as 3rd lord of Crawford, and his maternal uncle as Lord of Limesay and Wolverley in England.
   2. GERARD, s. his brother as 4th lord of Crawford, etc., and d.s.p.
   3. William, Chancellor of Scotland, Dean of Glasgow, d.s.p.
   4. Walter, d.s.p.
   1. Alice, m. Sir Henry Pinckney; s. to the great English estates on the death of her brother, when the lordship of Crawford reverted to the heir male.
2. Sir Walter de Lindsay, high justiciary of the Lothian, constable of Berwick, ambassador to King JOHN in 1215, became by marriage lord of Lamberton. He d. in 1221, having had issue,
   Sir William, lord of Lamberton, who acquired the territories of Windermere, Grasmere, etc., by marriage with Alice, dau. and co-heir of William de Lancaster, Lord of Kendal (her younger sister is now represented by the E. OF CRAWFORD), and had issue,

Their only dau., Christiana, m. Ingelram de Coucy, 2nd son of Arnold III., Count of Guignes, and is now represented by Robert, Duke of Parma, eldest son of Charles, Duke of Parma, by Louise his wife, sister of the Comte de Chambord, who d. 24 Aug. 1883.

The elder son,

ALEXANDER, master of Crawford, having seized and imprisoned his father, was found guilty of constructive parricide, which, by the law of Scotland, rendered him incapable of succession as if attainted. The dignity passed to the next heir male, of the house of Edzell, as shown above (see 3rd Earl),

Lineage—The family of Croft, which is of Saxon origin, settled in Herefordshire at a very remote period. Camden, in his description of that county, says "Not far off from Richard's Castle stands Croft Castle, belonging to the very ancient and knightly family of the Crofts"; and in Domesday-Book, Bernard de Croft is mentioned as holding the lands of Croft, which his descendants inherited until the close of the 18th century, and served their county and Leominster in parliament during seven centuries, between 1297 and 1880.

From an almost uninterrupted line of knights, distinguished alike in council and in arms, descended

King CHARLES made him one of the Senators of College of Justice, and a privy councillor. In 1678 MacKenzie was constituted Justice General, and in 1681 he was made lord register. Being in no less favour with JAMES II. that monarch, immediately upon his accession to the throne, created him a peer, as Viscount of Tarbat, Lord MacLeod and Castle-Haven, by letters patent, dated 15 April, 1685, and renewed his commission for being lord register, which office he lost at the Revolution; but King WILLIAM being no stranger to his great abilities, was pleased to restore him to the lord clerk register's office in 1692. About this time his lordship published, from authentic documents and records, his learned vindication of King ROBERT III. from the imputation of bastardy, and rectified an error which many historians had most unaccountably fallen into. In the beginning of Queen Anne's reign he was constituted Secretary of State, in 1702; and on the 1st of January, 1702-3, her majesty advanced him to the dignity of Earl of Cromarty, Viscount of Tarbat, Lord MacLeod and Castle-Haven, by patent to his heirs-male, and of tailzie. Pamela Richenda Cubitt, b. 10 March, 1910.

Sir Thomas claims the Earldom of Glencairn, as lineal descendant of William, 4th earl of Glencairn.

Lineage—Andrew Cuninghame, first of the house of Corsehill, was 2nd son of William, 4th Earl of Glencairn (see Glencairn, E. of, Burke's Extinct Peerage), and like his elder brother, Alexander, 5th Earl of Glencairn, was actively engaged in support of the Reformation, and being convicted of heresy before the lords spiritual in 1538, had his estate forfeited. However, he was afterwards pardoned, and his property restored; in confirmation of which he obtained another grant by charter from the king, of the same lands, in favour of himself, his spouse, and their heirs male. He m. Margaret Cunningham, of the Polmaise family, and d. 1544. His eldest son, Cuthbert Cuninghame, succeeded, as appears by an instrument of sasine in his favour, of that date. After his marriage with Mauld Cuninghame (dau. of John Cuninghame of Aitket), Cuthbert obtained on his resignation a new charter from Henry and Mary, to himself, his spouse, and their heirs. He d. 1575, and left two sons, Patrick and Alexander, who were for some time under the guardianship of their grand-uncle, Hugh Cuninghame, of Watterston; and two daus., Jean and Margaret. About this time the long-continued feud between the Cunynghames and Montgomeries appears to have been at its height, in which feud the eldest son, Patrick, was slain in 1588.

Alexander Cuninghame, of Corsehill, successor of his brother, m. Marion, dau. of William Porterfield, of Duchal, by whom he had two sons, Alexander and Cuthbert; and two daus., Elizabeth, m. to James Dunlop, of Dunlop; and Margaret, m. to James Stuart, of Torrance. The eldest son,

Sir Alexander Cuninghame, 1st Bart., on whom, and his affianced wife, his grandfather settled his estate in 1663, reserving to himself the life-rent. Alexander Cuninghame, senior, d. about the year 1667, and his grandson obtained a charter from the crown in favour of himself and spouse and their heirs, in confirmation of the disposition made by his grandfather; and, 26 Feb. 1671-2, the dignity of a baronet was conferred on him and the heirs male of his body. By his wife, Mary Stewart, dau. of John Stewart, younger, of Blackhall, he left a son, 1. Alexander (Sir), 2nd bart.; and two daus., 1. Mary, m. to Craufurd, of Dalegle; and 2. Elizabeth. Upon succeeding to the estate of Kirktonholm, he adopted the names and arms of MONTGOMERY, in consequence of a clause to that effect in the deed of entail. He m. Elizabeth, eldest dau. and thereafter heiress of David Montgomery, of Lainshaw, descendant of Sir Neil Montgomerie, of Lainshaw, and representative of the family of Lyle, Lord Lyle. He predeceased his father, Sir David, by a few months, in 1770. His family by his wife, were six sons and two daus.,

Lineage—The Ramsay family settled in the Lothians in the 12th century, when they are found witnessing various royal charters to religious houses.

WILLIAM DE RAMSAY swore fealty to EDWARD I. for his lands of Dalwolsey (Dalhousie) in Lothian, and Foulden, in Berwickshire. Joining Robert Bruce, he was one of the signatories of the famous letter of 1320 to the Pope, asserting Scotland's independence.

SIR ALEXANDER RAMSAY, of Dalwolsey, distinguished himself in the struggle against English domination in the minority of DAVID II. For capturing Roxburgh Castle he was rewarded by being made keeper of that fortress and sheriff of Teviotdale in supersession of Sir William Douglas of Liddesdale, who in retaliation, in June, 1342, seized Ramsay at Hawick, and conveyed him to his castle of Hermitage, where he died of starvation.

SIR WILLIAM RAMSAY, of Dalwolsey, sheriff of Edinburgh, distinguished himself by a raid into England in 1355, and appears on record down to 1379.

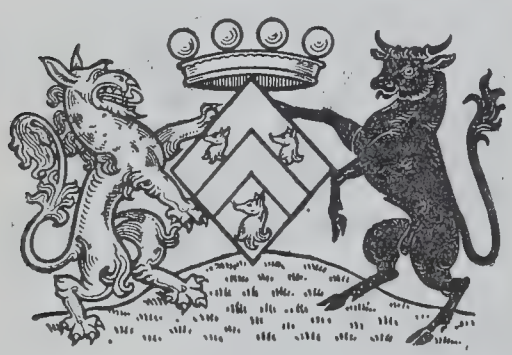
DARCY DE KNAYTH.



The Baroness Darcy de Knayth (Violet Ida Evelyn Herbert), Countess of Powis, b. 1 June, 1865; m. 21 Aug. 1890, George Charles, 4th Earl of Powis (see that title), and has issue,

1♦ Percy Robert, Viscount Clive, b. 2 Dec. 1892.
2♦ Mervyn Horatio, b. 7 May, 1904.
1♦ Hermione Glwadys, b. 17 Sept. 1900.

The Countess of Powis s. as 16th Baroness Darcy (de Knayth) on the determination by letters patent 29 Sept. 1903, of the abeyance of that barony in her favour.

Lineage—Norman Darcy, living temp. William the Conqueror and 6 William II, was the ancestor of the great Norman house of Darcy. He was possessed at the general survey of thirty-three lordships in co. Lincoln, including Nocton, which was the seat of his successors, barons by tenure. His son,

Robert Darcy, founded an Augustine priory at Nocton. His son,

Thomas Darcy, living 12 Henry II, m. Alice, dau. of Ralph d'Eincourt, and had three sons and four daus. He d. on Swithin's day, 1180. His son and heir,

Thomas Darcy, living temp. Richard I and 5 John, was s. by his son,

Norman Darcy, living 7 John, who took part with the barons against the king, whereupon his property was seized upon by the Crown, but afterwards restored. He d. temp. Henry III, and was s. by his son,

Philip Darcy, living 34 and 39 Henry III, m. Isabel, dau. of Sir Roger Bertram, of Mitford, and d. 1263. His son and heir,

Norman Darcy, who sided with Montfort, Earl of Leicester, and was one of the barons defeated with him at the battle of Evesham, 1265. The cinquefoils in the Darcy arms are, with little doubt, derived from the badge of the Earls of Leicester, and commemorate the party to which the house of Darcy belonged at this period. Norman Darcy was pardoned 51 Henry III, and distinguished himself later in the Welsh wars. He was summoned to Parliament at Shrewsbury, 1283, and to attend the King in 1294. He d. about 1296, having had issue,

1. Philip, 1st Lord Darcy, of Nocton, co. Lincoln, was summoned to the doubtful Parliament at Salisbury 25 Edward I (1296-7), and was summoned to Parliament as a baron 29 Dec. 28 Edward I (1299) to 20 Oct. 6 Edward III (1332). He took part in the insurrection against Edward II, 1321, but was pardoned. He d. about 1332, having had issue,
   1. Norman, 2nd Lord Darcy, who was never summoned to Parliament. He rebelled but was pardoned with his father. He d. 1340, leaving an only child,
      Philip, 3rd Lord Darcy, d. unm. under age, about 1350, when this barony fell into abeyance, between his aunts the co-heirs.
   1. Julian, m. — Limbury, and had a son, Sir Philip Limbury, who left issue.
   2. Ann (or Agnes), m. Sir Roger de Pedwardine.
2. Roger (Sir), of whom we treat.

The younger son,

Sir Roger Darcy, who, however, is sometimes said to have been uncle, not brother, of Philip, 1st Lord Darcy. His son,

John, 1st Lord Darcy, of Knayth, co. Lincoln, which estate is now in the possession of the Earl of Yarborough, husband of one of the co-heirs in 1903. He served in the Scotch wars, was sheriff cos. Nottingham, Derby, Lancaster, and York, constable of the Tower of London, and Chief Governor of Ireland at various times from 1322 to 1340. He was summoned to Parliament as a baron by writ directed "Johanni Darcy, le cosin," 27 Jan. 1331-2, 20 Jan. 1333-4, and 25 Feb. 1341-2. Lineage—THOMAS LEGGE served the office of sheriff for the city of London in 1343, and was lord mayor in the years 1346 and 1353. In 1338, this opulent citizen lent EDWARD III. £300 towards carrying on the war with France, which was a very considerable sum in those days, and more than any other citizen advanced, except the lord-mayor and Simon de Fraunces, who lent each £800 in the ensuing year. Alderman Legge is stated to have m. Lady Elizabeth Beauchamp, dau. of Thomas, Earl of Warwick; he had two sons, 1. SIMON, his heir, and 2. John, knt. of the shire for Surrey, 1379, beheaded by Wat Tyler's rebels. The elder son,

SIMON LEGGE, m. Joan, dau. of Joan Clavering, and was father of

EDWARD LEGGE, vice-president of Munster during the lieutenancy of his kinsman, Sir Charles Blount, Lord Mountjoy. This gentleman m. Mary, dau. of Percy Walsh, of Moyvalley, and had six sons and seven daus. The eldest son,

WILLIAM LEGGE, was brought out of Ireland by his godfather, Henry Danvers, Earl of Danby, and sent by him to serve as a volunteer under Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden; and he fought afterwards under Prince Maurice of Orange, in the Low Countries. On his return to England, he was first constituted keeper of the king's wardrobe, during life; and made, soon after, groom of the bedchamber. Col. Legge, during the civil wars, became eminently distinguished by his faithful attachment to CHARLES I., and his persevering exertions in the royal cause, before and after the murder of the king. At the battle of Worcester he was wounded and taken prisoner, and would have been executed, if his wife had not contrived his escape from Coventry gaol in her own clothes. He was high in favour after the Restoration, and enjoyed several lucrative and honourable offices. He m. Elizabeth, eldest dau. and co-heir of Sir William Washington, of Packington, co. Leicester, and granddau. maternally of Sir George Villiers, of Brooksby, in the same co.; and dying in 1672, was s. by his eldest son,

From 1667 to 1672, he commanded line-of-battle ships, and was appointed in the latter year lieut.-governor of Portsmouth; in 1673, advanced to the governorship, and appointed master of the horse and gentleman of the bedchamber to James, Duke of York. In 1677, Governor Legge was constituted col. of a regt. of foot, and nominated lieut.-gen. of the ordnance, of which he was soon afterwards made master. He was subsequently sworn of the privy council, and elevated to the peerage 2 Dec. 1682, as Baron Dartmouth, of Dartmouth, Devon, with remainder, in default of his own male issue, to his brother William, and the heirs male of his body. His lordship soon afterwards was sent as admiral of the whole English fleet to demolish Tangier, and on his return obtained a grant of £10,000, in reward of his services. During the reign of JAMES II., Lord Dartmouth enjoyed the confidence of that monarch, and filled some of the most important offices. In 1687, he was appointed admiral of the fleet to intercept the Prince of Orange; but falling with his party at the Revolution, he was deprived of his employments and sent to the Tower, where he d. 25 Oct. 1691. Lineage—Chamillart in 1666 describes the extinct Comtes de Cicé—related to the Champions de Crespigny of Vierville, near Fonteneys—as taking their name from their office. Jordan and Thomas de Fonteneys served in the first crusade, and Robert of Urvyle et Moulins in that under St. Louis at Aigues Mortes (see DE MAGNY'S Memoirs of the Marquisses de Fonteneys, " dit Marmion," a junior existing branch). Ricard of Urvyle was Vicomte of Vire, a royal domaine and castle, in 1220, and another Ricard in 1350. In the 13th century the Urvyle branch succeeded to Fonteneys le Marmion, but Bertrand le Champyon was deprived of his office and of Urvyle and Fonteneys by CHARLES VI., in favour of Robert Schottisbroke, with the original tenure, viz., attendance on summons in full armour with kindred, etc., at the feast of St. George, to present to the king at Cäen a flag with the arms of St. George for ever (Latin deed dated Falaise, 1 Jan. 1418). Bertrand swore fealty to the Duke of Brittany in 1427 for his estates of Cambis and Belleeze, and retained his title of Vicomte of Vire. Of this family, Ricard, Guillaume, and Raoul proved nobility in 1334, Jean in 1470, others in 1501, 1599, 1635, 1640, and Robert was patron of St. Barberie at the end of the 16th century (Laroche, MSS.). The male representative of the Marmions of Urvyle et Fonteneys le Marmion is Sir C. le Champion de Crespigny.

GUILLEAUME, Baron d'Urvyle, in 1181 assisted his near relative, Lord Marmion of Tamworth Scrivelsby, and Fonteneys, in endowing the Abbey of St. Barberie, founded by Robert, Lord Marmion, in 1140. He left three sons,

1. Robert of Moulins, who gave lands to St. Barberie in 1223, and joined St. Louis at Aigues Mortes as a crusader.
2. Ricard, 2nd son, was Vicomte of Vire in 1220. His son,

Jean, of Urvyle et Bretvyle, was living in 1289. He had four sons,

(1) Robert Bertrand, of Urvyle, Bretvyle, and Fonteneys, founded the fair of St. Hermies at Fonteneys le Marmion in 1333, and his son, Roland, m. Ellene de Fonteneys, mounted guard at St. Arnoul in Iveline, 26 Nov. 1357. The son of Roland, viz., Jean, was father of Bertrand, last Vicomte de Fonteneys, who was deprived of Fonteneys le Marmion and Urvyle on 1 Jan. 1418. Male line becoming extinct in the 18th century on death of Jaques Loftus le Champion.

(2) Olivier, d.s.p. (3) Maheas.

(4) Roger, supposed to be an ancestor of Le Champion d'Alenson, and of the Marquis de Fonteneys, of Varnhanu.

MAHEAS CHAMPION, Chevalier, of Lower Normandy, m. Madlle. Busnel, dau. and heir of Jean Busnel, Escuier, Sieur and Baron de Frenes; and dying in 1350, left a son,

RICHARD CHAMPION, Viscomte de Vire in consequence of his father having obtained the Domaine du Roi. By his wife, who was dau. of Hector Mensaut, Escuier, Sieur de Lensentière, he had two sons,

1. JEAN, who took up his residence in Brittany, and from whom derived Les Sieurs de Chartres de Cicé, and other CHAMPIONS in that province, as well as CHAMPION DE CICE, ci-devant archbishop of Aix, living in 1830, who came over to England with other royalists, in the suite of the Duc de Bourbon, and was hospitably received by the late Sir William Champion de Crespigny, Bart., at Champion Lodge.
2. MICHAEL.

The 2nd son,

MICHAEL CHAMPION, Escuier, died in Normandy, leaving, by Jeanne his wife, dau. of Le Sieur de la Rivière, four sons, of whom the eldest,

HERBERT CHAMPION, Escuier, Sieur de la Fleurière, in the parish of St. Quentin, near Tinchebrais, Lower Normandy, which estate he purchased of Jean l'Anglois, 4 May, 1463, m. Jeanne, dau. of Jean Abot, Escuier, Sieur de Melley, and had three sons (Antoine, Martin, and Jean, a priest) and one dau., Madelaine, wife of Guillaume Vaillant, Escuier. The eldest son,

ANTOINE CHAMPION, Escuier, Sieur de la Fleurière, was father, by Catherine Marye, his wife, of

RAUL CHAMPION, Escuier, Sieur de la Fleurière, who m. 10 March, 1550, Jeanne, dau. of Sebastian le Forestier, Escuier, and heiress of her brother, Guillaume le Forestier, Seigneur of St. Opportune and Magny, and was s. by his son,

JEAN CHAMPION, Escuier, Sieur de la Fleurière, who m. Marthe, dau. of Guillaume du Bourget, Escuier, and dying 22 Feb. 1632, left, with other issue, a son and successor,

Richard Champion (whose services to the king were twice noticed by the Comte de Maulière) sold the estate of Fleurière to Henri du Gué, in 1641, and removed from that place, which had been for nearly two centuries the family residence, to the lands of Crespigny. In Dec. 1617, he was re-married, in the reformed religion, at Condé, and on the 6 June following he took an oath of fealty to the king that he would not adhere to the Rochellois Protestants. He was s. at his decease by his son,

CLAUDE CHAMPION DE CRESPIGNY, Escuier, Sieur de Crespigny, in the parish of Vierville, b. at Crespigny, and baptized in the reformed religion, at Condé, 17 May, 1620, was an officer of high rank in the French service, but at the revocation of the Edict of Nantes he quitted France, with the whole of his family, and came to England, where he was received by the Pierpoints, being allied by marriage to that noble house.
